O’Donovan are delighted to welcome Swedish company Sortera, who have launched into the UK waste sector by joining forces with the family-run market leader, known for outstanding service, quality, environmental awareness and not to mention their numerous accolades and awards.

Sortera have a planned strategy in relation to continued growth and expansion within the UK and beyond. The O’Donovan Directors and management team are staying in situ and are all very excited about the future opportunities moving forward in tandem with their European colleagues.

Jacqueline O'Donovan, Managing Director of O’Donovan Waste said: ‘’It is a hugely exciting time for the business and also for the staff. Together, we will be able to implement our Net Zero pledge, bringing different, alternative greener initiatives to the market quicker which will assist our clients in reaching their ESG (Environmental social and governance) objectives. The transaction has already created new roles within the business and we are keen to get likeminded people to join the team so we can work together to achieve our shared goals.’’

Sebastian Wessman, CEO of Sortera, said: “We are very happy to now join forces with O’Donovan. It is evident that they have carried out exemplar work, to become one of the leading and most prominent construction and demolition recyclers in London and the Southeast. O’Donovan has a really strong customer focus and their systematic work with environment and health and safety has resulted in numerous prestigious awards, as well as a strong reputation among both customers and employees.
