This year, The Guild – the University of Liverpool's students' union (SU) – celebrates half a decade of composting food waste from its campus kitchens.

The campus's composting journey began in January 2015, when it invested in dewatering and composting equipment from Macclesfield organic waste solutions specialist Tidy Planet. It sought a solution to close the waste management loop, omit costly waste disposal fees and create a valuable resource to grow produce in the on-site rooftop gardens and cultivation plots.
