

Now in its 11th year, Portable Sanitation & Welfare Expo is still expanding, with new exhibitors lined up.

This year's the Portable Sanitation & Expo will feature over 40 exhibitors, and with new attendees from Italy, the rest of Europe and a collaboration with the Portable Sanitation Association International (the United States version of Portable Sanitation Europe), it's set to be an international show!

The 2016 event (24 – 25 February 2016) will see the introduction of new and informative seminars such as “Welfare requirements on small and transient construction sites”, “Diversify your Business and create more profit” and “Norovirus Transmission”. The event will also feature a fundraising dinner with a presentation from Beating Bowel Cancer speaking, the associations chosen charity and also some evening entertainment.

New exhibitors to look out for include ToiBlu who produce a revolutionary product called TOI-block, the world's 1st inter-locking portable toilet with International Patent Pending and BorderLoos, a specialist hire company based in Cumbria.

Also worth checking out is GigLoo, a well known UK manufacturer who provide 100% recyclable units and who will be demonstrating three of their 2016 models which, after listening to customer feedback, have a number of enhanced features with innovative designs. In addition GK&N will be attending who are experts in the service and repair of toilet tankers.

As an extra incentive to pre-register for the event, all registrations received before 30th November will enter into a prize draw to receive an i-pad. It's easy, simply go to www.ps-expo.com to register free today.
